The screenshot shows the registration process on the Northbrook Public Library website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the library's logo, contact information, and a search bar. Below the navigation bar is a menu with various categories like Home, My NPL, Explore, Events, Books, Movies & Music, Downloads, Research, Kids, Teens, and Email Notices. A message banner indicates that the password is patron unless changed. The main content area is titled "Almost there!" and "Step 2/2", with a note to fill in required fields. A red arrow points to the "Create a Username:" field, which is currently empty. Below this is a section for "BiblioCommons Terms of Use" with a "Last updated June 17, 2011" date. A question asks "Is this the only policy governing my use of the library's services?" with a dropdown menu set to "No." Below that, there is a checkbox for "I accept the Terms of Use" which is currently unchecked. A red arrow points to the "Register" button at the bottom right. A yellow callout box with a red arrow pointing to the username field contains the text: "Create your username here—not your actual name. Use letters, numbers, underscores, up to 24 characters. No spaces allowed, and not case sensitive." Another yellow callout box with a red arrow pointing to the Register button contains the text: "Register, and you're done."

BiblioCommons Terms of Use
Last updated June 17, 2011

Northbrook Public Library has entered into an agreement with BiblioCommons to make it easier to track your holds and renewals and find the titles you are interested in. BiblioCommons is a service to share ratings and commentary about the titles you find. When you use the pages in Northbrook Public Library's BiblioCommons, you are using BiblioCommons' services and these BiblioCommons Terms of Use apply. Your use of BiblioCommons is governed by the BiblioCommons Terms of Use, and indicates that you accept the terms of the BiblioCommons Terms of Use, and indicates that you accept the terms of the BiblioCommons Terms of Use, together they are the only documents that govern your relationship with BiblioCommons. You may not use the BiblioCommons Service if you do not accept the Terms of Use; please read them carefully.

Is this the only policy governing my use of the library's services?
No. Northbrook Public Library may have additional policies that govern other aspects of the services we offer. Please check the library's homepage to view these documents, or speak to a librarian.
