The library provides welcoming and appropriate spaces, activities and materials for babies, children, and teens. The Library aims to create a happy, inviting atmosphere that inspires creativity, learning, and growth for babies, children, teens, and their families. Library staff members are available to assist babies, children, teens and families with locating and using library materials and services.

The Youth Services Department is designed for the use of babies, children, teens, and their families and for people looking to use materials housed in this department. Other adults will be asked to relocate to a different part of the library. Staff may make exceptions for other adults that are not in the space with babies, children, or teens or using materials housed in Youth Services to use the space depending on circumstances.
